A Case Resembling That of Gen. Grant. Some ten years ago I had a scrofulous sore on my right hand which gave me great trouble, and under the old-time treatment healed up, but it had only been driven into the system by the use of potash and mercury, and in March, 1882, it broke out in my throat, and consentrated in what some of the doctors called cancer, eating through my cheek, destroying the roof of my mouth and upper lip, then attacked my tongue, palate, and lower lip, destroying the palate and under lip entirely and half my tongue, eating out to the top of my left cheek bone and up to the left eye. I could not eat my solid food, but subsisted on liquids, and my tongue was so far gone I could not tak. Such was my wretched, helpless condition the lst of last October, 1884, when my friends commenced giving me swift's Specific. In less than a month the eating places stopped and healing commenced, and the fearful sperture in my cheek has been closed and firmly knitted together. A process of a new under lip is progressing finely, and the tougue, which was almost destroyed, is being recovered, and it seems that matue is supplying a new tongue. I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can also cut solid food again. If any doubt these facts, I would refer them to Hon, John H. Traylor, state sensor of this district, and to Dr. T. S. Bruddedd, of Latirane, (is.

PUNISHING A THIEF.

How Justice Was Meted Out Sixty Years Ago-John A. Murrell's Sen-

[Nashville Union.]
Among the many notable characters that figured in the criminal annals of early Tenacssee none exceeds in prominence that of John A. Murrell. So much has been written concerning his career that a sketch of him here is altogether unnecessary. His greatest purpose in life seemed to be the possession of fine horseffesh, and he was frequently to be found astride a thoroughbred. The only title to which he could lay claim was generally the fact that he occuclaim was generally the fact that he occupled the saddle, and the man that disputed that title was in imminent danger of "going to join the angels" without sending them word.

As a daring highwayman and expert horse thief Murrel gained a national reputation, the principal field of his operations being middle Tennessee. In 1820 he was convicted and sentenced to the penitoniary for a long term, and after serving part of the term his health failed, and, death approaching, he was pardoned out to die, which event occurred in the mountains shortly after his release.

A Union reporter yesterday, in looking over the records of the circuit court of Davidson county of ye olden time, found the following interesting sketch of the trial of Murrell. It was recorded as part of the minutes of the season of the circuit court held in the Davidson county court house on Thursday, May 25, 1825, just sixty years ago, It is given verbatin; minutes of the session of the circuit court held in the Davidson county court house on Thursday, May 25, 1825, just sixty years ago. It is given verbatim:

"The State vs. John A. Murrell, indicted for horse stealing. This day came the attorney general for the seventh solicitorial district of the state of Tennessee, and the said John A. Murrell was led to the bar of custody, of the sheriff of Davidson county; whereupon came a jury of good and lawful men, to wit: Egbert Haywood, Henry Life, Micajih Fly, William H. Nance, Brent Spence, Jordan Hyde, John M. Wright, Philip Hoever, Norvell H. Robertson, Godfrey Shelton, Johnsthan Drake, and John Nichol, who being elected, tried, and sworn the truth of and upon the premises to speak, and having heard the evidence, on their oath do say that the said John A. Murrell is guilty of the horse stealing in manner and form as charged in the bill of indictment; and thereupon it being demanded of the said John A. Murrell, if anything for himself he hath or knoweth to say why the court here to judgment and execution of and upon the premises should not proceed, he said that he had nothing but what he had before said. Whereupon all and singular, the premises being saw and fully understood, it is considered by the court that the said John A. Murrell receive on his bare back, at the public whipping post in Davidson county, thirty lashes; that he sit in the pillory two hours on Monday, two hours on Tuesday, and two hours on Wednesday, and that he be branded on the left thumb with the letters 'H. T.' that he be imprisoned twelve months from this date, and be rendered infamous and pay the costs of prossecution, and it is ordained that the sheriff of Davidson county put this judgment as to the whipping into immediate execution, and the branding on Wednesday next, in the presence of the court, and that the said John A. Murrell be remanded to jall.

Lost Postoffice Warrants, Checks, &c. EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN: Under date of Nov. 26, 1858, a postoffice warrant was drawn in favor of A. B. Pedigo, of Texas, for $108.17. Sixth Auditor McConville having de-clined to pay, an appeal was taken to the first cimed to pay, an appeal was taken to the first comptroller and he sustained the auditor's decision. The provision by law (Revised Statuics, sections 396 and 397, and section 121, Postal Laws and Regulations) are very emphatic in favor of paying all outstanding obligations of the foregoing character without regard to the time that they may have been outstanding. The appropriation for said purpose is "perpetual"—ready at any time when called for. A certificate was procured from the Secretary of the Treasury stating that the foregoing warrant was outstanding, never having been paid. Notwithstanding the foregoing fact and precedent, where warrants of more than twenty years outstanding have been paid, Auditor McCouville declined to pay the above just claim, thus wholly disregarding the written law, and substituting in lieu thereof his individual opinions and prejudices, without any foundation whatever in law or justice. Comptroller Durham is supposed to have sustained him as a matter of courtersy rather than on a legal basis.

cle was tastefully decorated by ladies and gentlemen, and the eye rested on lovely masses of green and pots of bright blooming plants. An exquisitely trimmed arch surmounted the whole, No wonder that the speakers of the day waxed eloquent and charmed all by their enthusiasm. At the morning service Rev. Julius Soper preached a missionary sermon from the text, "I am the light of the world."

The former presiding elder, Rev. B. Peyton Brown, preached impressively to-night from the words: "And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God and Into the patient waiting for Christ." Of those who rose for prayer at last night's meeting one gave evidence of her conversion in answer to the petitions sent up in her behalf. Many requested sympathy and prayers for friends. Several "bove" between 18 and 25 years of age had committed verses to recite at children's meeting this afternoon, but they were doomed to disappointment, as the children were put off on account of the gospel missionary meeting held at their usual hour, and at which Rev. Job A. Price presided. Mrs. Maj. Morgan read portious of Scripture, followed by an address by Mrs. Chandler. Every one spoke in terms of highest praise concerning Mrs. Chandler's address. She also spoke very feelingly in the experience meeting this morning. Mrs. Dr. Reley, after a few remarks on the subjects, solicited subscriptions for woman's foreign missions.

Where the Money Wont to.

EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN: I find the following in a Washington paper of this morning, quoted from the Boston Herald:

"RESULTS OF THE CHANGE.—The revelations of maifeasance and plundering in the federal offices in Louisians, by which the government has suffered a net loss of $1,00,000, show that the money paid by the taxpayers is not "all there," although the treasury count balanced. It is the money that didn't get there which proves the need of a change."

This statement is condensed from a letter written by a New Orleans correspondent of the New York Sun.

There is an old saying that "Hars should have long memories," which seems to have been forgotten in this case. The dealeatous spoken of occurred in 1868, '69, '70, and '71, and the defaulters were Perry Fuller, collector of customs, appointed by Andrew Johnson; Gen. James Steadman, collector of internal revenue, a Bennocrat appointed by Andrew Johnson; william M. Shanilwood, postmaster, a bennocrat appointed by Andrew Johnson, and W. R. Whittaker, assistant United States treasurer, a Democrat appointed by Andrew Johnson was elected by the Republicans, and therefore they are responsible. But this is not true. Andrew Johnson was elected by the Republicans, and therefore they are responsible. But this is not true. Andrew Johnson was elected vice president of the United States by the Republicans, but the pistod im President of the United States and the same instrument supplemented by the Winchester rifie and the built whip have had much to do with electing his present Democratic successor.

President Johnson was a Democrat and appressed the office.

Fresident Johnson was a Damocrat and ap-pointed Democrats to office. Every one of the l was present at the reception of Perry Fuller when he arrived in New Orleans and know how the Democrats rejoiced over his coming, as it gave them the opportunity, which they availed themselves of, to gather in several hundred thousand dollars of Uncle Sam's hundred thousand dollars of Uncle Sam's money.

Mr. Whittaker loaned the money of the government to the First National, for which Tom P. May was president. It was, however, but the stool pigeon for a number of distinguished Democrats to whom the money was really loaned, as when that bank failed amongst its debtors for large sums who were bankrupt were some of the leading Democrats of the state, men now high in the councils of the Democratic party.

It was these men who didn't allow the money to "get there," and they went out, to be succeeded by Republicans who have not been defaulters.

If the statements of Louislana Democrats about each other, and particularly about those about each other, and particularly about those who have been appointed to office—statements, too, from men as high in position as United States senators and state treasurers—are to be States senators and state treasurers—are to be taken for truth, another 'era of good stenling' equal to that under Andrew Johnson is about to be organized.

Something Good Coming.

In a short time the old business stand of Saks & Co., on Seventh street, near Pennsylvania avenue, will appear as a new and most attractive store for the exhibition and sale of ladies' wear, wherein cloaks and millinery will be remarkable specialties. Then shall we sing, with hearty cherus:

Away, away
To the "Bou Marche!"
Ladles trip the busy street;
All things fair
Will chain you there,
And every word be—"Sweet! how sweet!"

And every word be—"sweet! how sweet!"
Away, away
To the "Bou Marche!"
There is certainty that every fancy and need in costume will be gratified by the superto offerings. The great experience of the proprietors, their courtecusness, and extremely accummodating disposition will secure universal commendation. commendation.

Their advantages as manufacturers and direct importers of the articles in which they deal enable them to offer to their patrons in Washington every economy in price as well as the most extensive variety in style that can be found in any eastern city.

Learn our song, and especially the chorus:

Away, away To the "Bon Marche!"

Higher. ners on the stock exchange to-day indicates a quiet, active market; but it was active and dull by turns. Many determined efforts were made to set the ball rolling upward, but when the orders issued had been exewas a small business until a new batch of orders made their appearance, which was always heralded by vigorous trumpeting by the brokers. Prices at the opening were de-cidedly strong, the advances in the opening cidedly strong, the advances in the opening quotations over the final prices yesterday ranging from ½ to ½ per cent. During the forencon, and generally within the first hour of business, there were further advances, which made the total gains as compared with yesterday amount to ½ to 1 per cent. The market closest weak, and generally at or near the lowest prices of the day, with the exception of Omahas, and with sales of 401,400 shares.

Money on call continues easy at 1 to 1½ per cent., closing at 1½. Foreign exchange continues quiet and operations unchanged. Actual business, 484‡ for sixty day bills and 485† for demand. Posted rates, 485 for sixty day bills and 487 for demand. Government bonds are dull and steady. State bonds were a little more active and quotations steady.
